CROSS-TOWN RUN

DRAG RACE between JAP-mounted Ekins and quarter horse-mounted Nancy Spahn. Ekins barely won in near photo finish.

Over 600 riders turn out for novel Los Angeles "shop-hop"

LOS ANGELES dealers Floyd Burk and Bud Ekins, on opposite ends of the vast metropolitan area, hosted a mid-February road run that is still being talked about. Originally planned as a small slacks-attired run between Burk's Compton store and Ekins' Sherman Oaks location, the event mushroomed overnight into a major run.

Two hundred fifty cyclists started out from Burk's and rendezvoused at Ekins' store, meeting with a larger group. From there the run headed toward Corriganville—a western movie location. Cyclists rode six abreast, with the group stretching from two to three miles. "Crash" Corrigan, owner of Corriganville, threw open the gates to the cyclists, with a field meet being held. Lee Marvin, TV actor and motorcycle enthusiast, was the guest of honor.
